

A Couples Conundrum (Lets Build a Church)

Its time for your church to build. Youre planning a big campaign within the church to get people on board and to raise the money you need for this great venture. Its going to require faith and commitment from everyone, and sometimes just preaching at them wont be enough. Thats where these dramas come in. These were written for a very successful building campaign and I offer them now to you. In this script, a couple is faced with a difficult decision of whether to financially support this new building campaign. Do they trust God, or will they let money matters weigh them down? Its a common situation many couples will face when they hear the message about the building campaign, and its good to acknowledge that reality. You can read all these scripts when you purchase the Lets Build a Church complete collection. They are also all available individually and are DRM free.
